Administrative History:

Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary (APTS) was established in Austin, Texas in 1902 by Dr. Robert Lewis Dabney and the Rev. Richmond Kelley Smoot with the mission of educating and equipping ministers for the Southwestern United States, and the central-Austin campus community is still pursuing those goals today. The mission statement of APTS is:

For the glory of God and to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ, Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary is a seminary in the Presbyterian-Reformed tradition whose mission is to educate and equip individuals for the ordained Christian ministry and other forms of Christian service and leadership; to employ its resources in the service of the church; to promote and engage in critical theological thought and research; and to be a winsome and exemplary community of God's people.

Scope and Contents:

The Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary Audiovisual Collection includes audio cassette tapes, VHS video tapes, CDs, DVDs, and other formats documenting seminary events from 1960 to the present day. The collection is divided into categories (Lectures / Graduation / Publicity and campus footage / Special Events / Chapel recordings / Board of Trustees / Centennial celebration / Interviews / Library Course Reserves / Unidentified) based on the subject matter.

More information concerning the format, lecture titles, and contents of specific materials is located on an accompanying spreadsheet. This is available upon request.

Items may have several Box/Cabinet numbers because the materials are stored according to physical format, not subject matter. Due to this, items relating to the same topic are often in multiple locations.

Restrictions:

Materials are available by appointment only. Contact the archivist for details.

In cases where a library copy exists of a tape or disc, that copy should be used for reference access instead of the archives copy.

In cases where Stitt Library does not have the equipment necessary to access these materials, the patron has the option of paying for an access copy to be made. After listening to or viewing the material, the access copy will become property of the Austin Seminary Archives.
